System of government

Sumerian city states. Each city state had its main patron god. The inhabitants worshipped the god, who was recognized as the official head of the city state. The god was represented by the priests so actually the priests ruled the state = theocracy. The priests administered the state, organized work, collected taxes, kept food supplies. The richer the cities got the more enemies they had. It was necessary to build city walls, keep the army, have a military commander. The commanders became important, took over the power, unified more city states under their rule, became emperors, but officially titled themselves deputies of the gods.

Religion

Polytheism – many gods – each city had its own main god.

Sumerians worshipped the forces of nature first (eg. the force making the grain grow, the force bringing floods, the force preserving harvested grain) but gradually gave them human qualities and so gods in charge of various tasks appeared.

Main Gods:

Enlil – god of the air, main god supreme over all the others, ruler of the rulers

An – god of the sky

Enki – god of the earth

Ishtar – goddess of love and fertility

Samash – god of the sun and justice

Temples – Ziggurats

Ziggurats were built of dried clay bricks in the form of a stepped (terraced) pyramid. On the top there was a temple dedicated to the main god of the city as the patron of the city. (eg. Marduk was the main god of Babylon)

Writing

The first pictographic writing appeared round 3,500 BC. It consisted of simple pictures. The pictures were later simplified into a system of wedge shaped symbols as they used clay tablets as writing material. The characters were made by pressing a reed stylus with triangular shape onto a wet clay tablet. This system of writing is called cuneiform script. (cuneus is the Latin for wedge)

TASK 5: Draw an easy schematic picture of a fish, water and a head of an ox. Try to simplify it and make it consist of a combination of wedge shaped characters. Compare your cuneiform with the pictures your teacher will provide.

90% of all written materials found in Mesopotamia are to do with business and administration. Literacy was highly praised and so the temple schools of writing, reading and counting appeared. Clay tablets were stored in libraries. Some of them were discovered (the biggest in Niniveh) and thanks to them we can learn a lot about Mesopotamian daily life.

Laws of Hammurabi, Hammurabi was a king of the Old Babylonian Empire in 1,792-1,750 BC

TASK 6: Study the introduction to the Code of Hammurabi and analyze what features of Mesopotamian culture and lifestyle are mentioned.

Hammurabi, the king of righteousness, on whom Shamash has conferred the law, am I. When Marduk sent me to rule over man, to give protection of right to the land, I did right and righteousness brought about the well-being of the oppressed.

TASK 7: Study the cases brought to Hammurabi to solve. What do you think would be the ideal and fair verdict in the cases? Suggest appropriate punishment. The teacher will then show you the relevant passages of 'the Code of Hammurabi'.

What should happen to a boy who slapped his father?

What should happen to a careless builder, who did not do his work properly, the house he built collapsed and killed its new owner.

What if the fallen house does not kill anyone but destroys property?

What should happen to the person who destroyed the eye of a free-born man?

Shall there be any compensation for any stolen property, if the thief is not caught?

What should happen to the person who spreads gossip about a nun or a wife but cannot prove that the gossip is based on the truth?

Mathematics, counting

Lunar calendar – 12 months of 29 days, falling behind the seasons, every fifth year an extra month was added. (the Jewish and Muslim calendars are based on the lunar calendar and so every year extra days devoted to religious festivals are added, even nowadays)

Day - 24 hours, hour - 60 minutes, minute sixty seconds, angle 360 degrees (corresponds with the invention of the wheel) = duodecimal system of counting – number 12 basis

TASK 8: Is the duodecimal counting more practical than our decimal counting? Give reasons?

ANCIENT ASIA MINOR

- Ancestor Abraham from Ur, God made a deal with him, if Abraham believed in him he would lead him to the promised land and make his descendants the biggest, chosen nation. He led him to the promised land Kanaan (Palestine)
- Abraham, though about 90 years old had two sons as promised, one with Hagar the slave of his wife, and the other – Isaac - with his wife Sarah. Sarah then forced Hagar and her son Ishmael to leave. According to the Arab tradition Ishmael then became the ancestor of the Arabs and Isaac of the Hebrews (Jews). So all three monotheistic religions Judaism, Christianity and Islam have the same ancestor – Abraham.
- Abraham's grandson Jacob had 12 sons – the origin of 12 Jewish tribes
- In the course of time the Hebrews had to move to Egypt (the story of Joseph and his brothers)

- God gave Moses a set of rules, laws, instructions on Mount Sinai – its essence is given in the Ten Commandments

- The Jews then reached the promised land but had to fight for it with the local kingdoms and a wave of new invaders The Philistines (one of the sea nations attacking the ancient empires 1200-1000 BC)
- God then gave the Jews kings to lead the struggle, but there were only three kings of a unified Jewish kingdom

- Judea by New Babylonian Empire – Nebuchadnezzar II. (587 BC), who took the Jews to Babylon – Babylonian Captivity of the Jews
- The Jews could return back to Palestine during the reign of the Persian Emperor Darius
- Judea was then part of the Persian Empire, the Empire of Alexander the Great, the Seleucid Empire and finally 30 BC the Roman Empire
- Because of the Jewish uprising against Rome in 70 AD the Romans conquered Jerusalem, destroyed the city and the second Temple (The Weeping Wall – the only preserved part) and to prevent further rebellions moved out the Jews out into various parts of the Empire. Since then up to 1948 when the Jewish state of Israel was established the Jews lived in Diaspora, small communities scattered around the world.
